Veterinary Clinics of North America Now Available Online

Cary Veterinary Medical Library is pleased to announce that we now have online access to 57 of Elsevier's eClinics titles, including the Veterinary Clinics of North America. All four Veterinary Clinics (Equine Practice, Food Animal Practice, Small Animal Practice and Exotic Animal Practice) are available from 2002 - present.

To access these journals, just search the journal title in AubieCat, our online catalog, www.lib.auburn.edu.

To make searching easier, search by "Journal Title".

The screenshot below shows what the AubieCat record will look like after a successful search. The titles that have "[electronic/print]" next to them (i.e. numbers 3-6) will have a link taking you to the online articles.

How To:

Open a Wireless Web Connection in the Veterinary Library

Laptops should automatically recognize Tsunami, our wireless network. If it does not, follow the steps below:

1. Control Panel
2. Network Connections
3. Double-click wireless network connections
4. Tsunami
5. Refresh network list

Patrons will be re-directed to a network authentication page, which will ask for their OIT username and password before accessing the internet.

Need help using the Library's website?

Don't know where to start searching for articles?

Schedule an appointment or just stop by the Vet Library when you have the time. Someone will be happy to help you get started.

Full sessions usually last 30 to 45 minutes, but we can customize it to fit your needs.

Website Security Certificates

Do either of these look familiar?

When logging into certain services on the AU Libraries website, you are likely to come across this warning.

Denise Baker, AU Libraries Systems employee, explains: "The AU Libraries is currently using self-signed certificates. Self-signed certificates are the same as signed versions except for the fact that a Certificate Authority (CA) like Verisign doesn't stamp it with their approval. The AU Libraries stamps it with our own. Self-signed certificates offer the same amount of protection with the one drawback of having to deal with the annoying popup alert the browser displays in earlier browser versions or the 'Certificate Error: Navigation Blocked' window in IE7.

It is recommended by the AU Libraries Systems Department to continue on by clicking the 'Continue to this website...' link as long as the first part of the site location name begins with <http://www.lib.auburn.edu>.
